1 March to
12 March 2010

Your contributions to this discussion will inform the revision of the WHO Multi-professional Patient Safety Curriculum Guide

Week 1 Discussion:

- Is patient safety an essential issue to all health professions in the provision of quality health care?
- Patient safety and infection control: are we doing enough?
- Can teamwork across professional groups improve patient safety? How can we make - teamwork more effective? -

Week 2 Discussion:

- Is the generic curriculum on patient safety a useful tool to support in-service and pre-service training of different health professions?
- How can we advocate for including patient safety into our curricula?

The WHO Multiprofessional Patient Safety Curriculum Guide:

Patient safety is a major global priority in health care. To deliver safe health care all health professions require training in the discipline of patient safety. WHO is currently working to develop a Multiprofessional Patient Safety Curriculum Guide in collaboration with the International Confederation of Midwives, the International Council of Nurses, the World Dental Federation, the International Pharmaceutical Federation and the World Medical Association under the auspices of the World Professions Alliance.

This global discussion forum is supported by the WHO Department s of Human Resources for Health, Patient Safety and Reproductive Health and Research through the IBP Knowledge Gateway
